

Statement of participation

Michael Frank

has completed the free course including any mandatory tests for:

Note taking in relation to the Social Sciences

This 1-hour free course explored the value of taking notes, what is important when doing so, and the methods that can be used.

Issue date: 28 July 2018

www.open.edu/openlearn

This statement does not imply the award of credit points nor the conferment of a University Qualification. This statement confirms that this free course and all mandatory tests were passed by the learner. Please go to the course on OpenLearn for full details:
<http://www.open.edu/openlearn/people-politics-law/politics-policy-people/sociology/note-taking-relation-the-social-sciences/content-section-0>

COURSE CODE: D218_2

Note taking in relation to the Social Sciences

<http://www.open.edu/openlearn/people-politics-law/politics-policy-people/sociology/note-taking-relation-the-social-sciences/content-section-0>

Course summary

Do you find it difficult to know what is important when taking notes? This free course, Note taking in relation to the Social Sciences, will enable you to decide the value of taking notes and improve your understanding of the methods that can be used.

Learning outcomes

By completing this course, the learner should be able to:

- identify the value and best way of note taking.

Completed study

The learner has completed the following:

Section 1

Social Policy

Section 2

Conclusion