

Statement of participation

Michael Frank

has completed the free course including any mandatory tests for:

---

Developing reading skills in relation to the Social Sciences

This 1-hour free course looked at developing reading skills in the context of Social Science resources and how to read critically and effectively.

---

Issue date: 28 July 2018

www.open.edu/openlearn

This statement does not imply the award of credit points nor the conferment of a University Qualification. This statement confirms that this free course and all mandatory tests were passed by the learner. Please go to the course on OpenLearn for full details:
<http://www.open.edu/openlearn/people-politics-law/politics-policy-people/sociology/developing-reading-skills-relation-the-social-sciences/content-section-0>

COURSE CODE: D218_7

---

Developing reading skills in relation to the Social Sciences

---

<http://www.open.edu/openlearn/people-politics-law/politics-policy-people/sociology/developing-reading-skills-relation-the-social-sciences/content-section-0>

---

Course summary

Have you ever wondered what skills are needed to get the most out of reading Social Science materials? This free course, Developing reading skills in relation to the Social Sciences, looks at how reading skills are developed and provides three questions that should be kept in mind when working through Social Science texts and extracts.

Learning outcomes

By completing this course, the learner should be able to:

- read Social Science materials critically and effectively.

Completed study

The learner has completed the following:

Section 1

Developing reading skills

Section 2

Conclusion